Police union accuses city of contempt of court

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

The Police Officers Association of Michigan has filed a motion for contempt of court with the Michigan Court of Appeals against the city of Romulus, Police Chief Fred Dansby and Mayor Beverly McAnally.

The city was expected to counter that measure Tuesday with a motion to deny the POAM motion.

Dansby said Tuesday his first reaction to the union motion was surprise.

"I've never heard of unions doing that," he said.

POAM representatives claim city officials disregarded an arbitrator's decision and two court orders to reinstate an officer to the police force. They said Dansby and McAnally could be fined and incarcerated for refusing to abide by the court ruling.

City officials maintain they are not breaking the law and have begun procedures to reinstate the officer.

The focus of this debate is former police officer Len White. Kenneth Grabowski, POAM business agent, said White was dating another officer from the department.

The couple reportedly were involved in several altercations involving some shoving, Grabowski said. Romulus police officials were called to the scene twice to calm White down, Grabowski said.

The officer was fired in March 1989 for violating eight department regulations.

The police officers' union feel the discharge was too severe, Grabowski said. White was advised to seek treatment for alcoholism. The union filed a grievance and the case was brought before an arbitrator.

In December 1989, the arbitrator found White guilty on all eight counts against him. He did consider White's 10 years in police work and efforts to seek

2 area men given life sentences for setting Taylor woman on fire

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Kristen Grauman looked on in a crowded courtroom Monday morning as the men convicted of setting her on fire last June were each sentenced to life in prison.

Brownstown Township residents Vester Lee Mills, 24, and his father-in-law, James Camilli, 40, were found guilty April 10 by separate juries of assault with intent to murder.

Grauman, who spent months in the hospital with burns covering 60 percent of her body, testified at the Camilli/Mills trials.

Before handing down sentences Monday, Recorder's Court Judge Edward Thomas sharply berated the two men for their crimes.

Thomas told Mills he believes the two men share equal blame for splashing Grauman with gasoline, lighting her on fire and leaving her by the roadside June 24.

"I don't think you should ever come out and be among civilized people," he said.

Thomas cited testimony indicating the men bought less than 20 cents worth of gasoline the night of the attack after an altercation with several men at a Taylor apartment complex. Witnesses at a Taylor gas station said the men were bragging about returning to "get some crackheads."

"It was your intention to set fire to someone," Thomas said. "In my opinion you should never be paroled."

Earlier that morning in court Camilli and Mills were given an opportunity to address the court.

For the first time during trial proceedings, Mills spoke, crying as he apologized to Grauman for her suffering.

"I'm terribly sorry for the

I think they got what they deserved. . .there's no excuse for what they did to me.

things that happened. Although I don't have the scars that show like her, I'll never forget that night," he said.

Mills, however, denied charges that he deliberately set Grauman on fire.

"There's no way in this world I could take gas, pour it on a person, set her on fire and watch her burn on the road," he said.

Mills' attorney, Daniel McGuire, asked the judge to review a scrapbook Mills made for his daughter last summer. The baby had died one hour and 45 minutes after birth.

"I think that shows a very sensitive side of Mr. Mills," McGuire said.

During proceedings for Camilli, attorney Henry Scharg claimed his client did not receive a fair trial.

"This case was tried in the media prior to the trial," Scharg said. "This is not the most horrendous crime I've seen...It was a good story to play up. It was horrendous that a woman was assaulted and burned, but I think we should put it in its perspective," he continued. "She (Grauman) was living a living hell before this happened. I think it's sad a person had to address their drug problems through this."

Grauman stated during testimony that she used crack cocaine regularly and was looking for crack the night of the assault. Camilli lured her into his car by asking where he could find a $50 rock, according to testimony.

Camilli condemned the judge for allowing jury members to see photos of Grauman taken during her hospital recovery. He said the photos led jury members to make a decision based on emotion.

"I, James Camilli, know I'm not guilty of this crime," he said.

Thomas later argued that evidence presented against Camilli during the trial was clear.

"You were the person that got Miss Grauman in the car. You were the person who bought the gasoline. You were the person who argued with the people at the apartment and you were the one who went to the apartment looking for your girlfriend," Thomas said. "I find you to be an extremely warped individual...You seem to have some kind of disdain for women. I don't think you should ever, ever be out in society."

Thomas said he will recommend to parole boards that the men never be released from prison.

Grauman, after the sentencing, said she was not surprised with the judge's ruling.

"I think they got what they deserved...there's no excuse for what they did to me."

Grauman said she was unmoved by Mills' emotional

Civil War soldiers will camp in town

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Union and Confederate soldiers are expected to arrive in Romulus next month accompanied by a group of civilians.

Romulus Historical Park will be used as a campsite, and residents will be encouraged to stop by.

Members of the Romulus Historical Society and the Romulus Historical Commission are sponsoring this visit as part of the Michigan Week and Heritage Day celebration.

Participating will be Fifth Texas Volunteers and the 24th Michigan Volunteer Infantry with each group dressed in full costume from the Civil War period.

From 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. May 19 the encampment will be open to the public, said Pearl Varner, historical society president.

"Civilian participants will also be encamping for the weekend and will be dressed in clothing of the era," she said.

Attempting to make this scene as accurate as possible, participants will bring firearms (not loaded) and cook over an open fire.

Additional events planned by the historical groups for Michigan Week include a concert by the Heritage String Band from 1 to 5 p.m. May 20 in the Romulus Historical Museum.

Tickets for the event are $3 and must be purchased in advance. Children younger than 3 years will be admitted at no cost.

The string band includes a dulcimer, banjos and fiddle players who will wear costumes of the Civil War period. Call 697-9626 for ticket information.

Cleanup season features 2 weeks free dumping

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus residents will be treated to two weeks of free dumping privileges next month as part of the annual community cleanup campaign.

City councilmembers approved the free dumping period Monday. Originally proposed by Department of Public Works Director James Panos was a month of free dumping. However, several councilmembers said they are concerned people will abuse the privilege by dumping materials that are not from the city or items unacceptable for a landfill, such as tires.

The two-week period was agreed upon as a compromise. The free dumping period has been offered by the city approximately 15 years.

Councilmembers also called the free dumping a preventative measure. This is the season for cleanup and improvement projects. City officials said they hope residents will utilize the "freebie" to discard materials from these efforts instead of dumping material in the road or on deserted property.

"People are dumping all over the city, and they always have," said Councilmember Russell Lambert. "I'm in favor of letting people dump (for free) a short time."

Residents are usually charged $8 to $10 to use a DPW dumpster.

Councilmember Noah Bergeron voted against the free dumping. The city does provide a dumpster and rubbish removal services, he said. Resident tax dollars already support these services.

"I think the free lunch is gone," he said.

Mayor Beverly McAnally said she supports the free dumping period. She assured councilmembers the city would aggressively pursue anyone who abused this privilege.

"We're trying to make it painful for people who want to destroy the quality of life in this city."

Below is a list of city dumping and rubbish removal regulations.

- All users must show proof of residency.
- No more than two loads will be accepted per day.
- No commercial dumping will be permitted.
- No dumping of concrete or dirt is permitted.
- No tires will be accepted.
- No tree limbs or tree trunks are accepted.
- Large items such as sheds, boats, cars or engines are forbidden.
- No liquid wastes (chemicals, petroleum products) are permitted.
- Regular rates are $8 for mini-pickup trucks or small trailers. Dumping from full size pickups or four-by-eight foot trailers cost $10.

- Garbage collectors will accept household rubbish and combustible yard refuse (twigs, grass clippings). Material should be in a garbage bag or bundled with a strong cord. Cardboard boxes and crates must be flattened and tied in bundles not to exceed two by four feet or 50 pounds. Items in this category are all household items such as furniture, appliances, water heaters. All doors must be removed.
- Collectors will not remove industrial or building materials such as bricks, concrete blocks, cement, stones, plas-

Composting may become reality

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

Composting facilities, which would reduce the waste stream for participating communities, could become available to members of the Conference of Western Wayne in the near future.

A May 11 presentation about the composting program is scheduled to be made to the CWW by the Western Township Utilities Authority.

One of the goals of the CWW Solid Waste Committee has been to seek ways to reduce the waste stream through reusing, recycling, and reducing wastes. An interest in studying composting proposals has been expressed by the CWW committee.

The WTUA, composed of the townships of Canton, Plymouth and Northville, was primarily created to design and build an $88 million sewer system and develop a solid waste management program for the three member communities.

A $250,000 Department of Natural Resources Quality of Life grant commitment was received by the WTUA, which will allow WTUA communities to collect yard wastes at curbside and deliver them to a composting site. The program also can be made available to other communities in western Wayne County.

The compost site, located on an 80-acre site at Beck and Geddes roads, would provide a composting capacity of approximately 400,000 cubic yards annually, or more than 100,000 tons, according to the WTUA. The site would receive yard wastes and wood, including brush, leaves, grass clippings, weeds, trees, stumps, waste construction wood and clean demolition site wood. No food wastes or non-cellulose bearing refuse would be accepted.

The composted material would be ground and screened to produce a fine, dry, odorless humus-like material, which would be suitable for soil conditioning. The product would be available for sale to greenhouses, nurseries and farmers, according to the WTUA.

Charges to participating communities would be determined by weight, not by truck capacity.

WE HAVE THE BEST WEATHER-RESISTANT LUMBER IN TOWN

It really weathers the elements!

Water beads right off Wolmanized EXTRA Weather-Resistant Lumber because it's got something "extra" - it's pressure treated with a special water repellent to prevent moisture penetration from rain and snow. All wood swells and expands when it absorbs moisture. As it dries, it releases moisture and shrinks. Constant expansion and contraction causes grain raising, checking, splintering and warping. Spray or brush on water sealers can't repel water like Wolmanized EXTRA Lumber - in laboratory tests Wolmanized EXTRA Lumber shows almost two-thirds more moisture resistance than pressure-treated lumber protected with a leading water sealer. Of course, this fantastic lumber is also pressure treated for lifelong protection against termites, rot and decay. Don't settle for ordinary treated lumber. Insist on Wolmanized EXTRA!

New jail may mean little to suburbs

Although the new Wayne County jail facility has not been completed, out-Wayne county police officials have already expressed concern about future space allocation and anticipated costs.

Voters approved a one-mill ballot proposal in 1988 to fund the jail expansion.

Western Wayne County Chiefs Association representative John Santomauro, Canton Township public safety director, expressed concerns about space allocation at the April 20 Conference of Western Wayne meeting.

Santomauro told the CWW representatives that he has met with Wayne County Executive Edward McNamara and Circuit Court Judge Richard Kaufman to seek assurances that space would be available to house prisoners from western Wayne County communities. The WWCCA asked that 50 percent of the facility be reserved for suburban prisoners, based on 1987 population figures.

Although no assurances were provided, Santomauro said, he is slated to meet with the two officials again this week for further dialogue.

"We were led to believe that this facility would be for sentenced misdemeanants," Santomauro said, adding that no assurances have been provided that, when the jail is completed, it will be used to house misdemeanants.

"The issue is that we are paying for the jail, and we should have an opportunity to use it," said the public safety director.

ROMULUS NEWS DIGEST

Citizen council has new member

Romulus City Council Monday night approved the appointment of Betty Jean Pressler to the Downtown Development Authority Citizens Advisory Council.

Pressler will replace Josephine Rehkopf, who submitted her resignation last month.

Cable meetings are changed

Members of the Romulus Cable Commission will now meet at 7:30 p.m. the third Tuesday of every month in city council chambers.

Previously, the Tax Increment Finance Authority and the cable commission met the second Tuesday of the month. TIFA meetings begin at 6:30 p.m. and occasionally delayed cable commission meetings.

Youth volunteer system will begin

A volunteer application is now in the works for students who want to volunteer their time to Romulus cable projects.

Cable Coordinator Oliver Warren and Recreation Director Duwayne Martin agreed to develop the form during a recent cable commission meeting.

The form is a response to City Councilmember Jimmie Raspberry who last month questioned the legality of children helping with the video taping of council meetings.

Warren said during the cable commission meeting he works closely with the students who help with city cable and makes sure they can handle equipment on their own before tackling video taping.

Volunteer forms are expected to request family information, permission slips for parents or guardians and information about the tasks students are volunteering for.

Resolution calls for updates

Communities bordering Huron Township will now be supplied with information about proposed developments for the township, according to a recently approved resolution.

Huron officials through the resolution also agree to consider comments about such developments from nearby communities.

Members of the Huron Township Board of Trustees sent a copy of the resolution to Romulus. It urges neighboring communities to adopt a similar policy.

"Each community desires to be informed on any proposed development which may adversely affect its residents," the resolution states.

District meeting time changes

Members of the Romulus Board of Education will meet at 7:30 p.m. April 30 at the district administrative building on Grant Road.

Board members usually meet the second and fourth Mondays of the month, but repairs to the administrative building changed their plans Monday.

Workers have been removing asbestos from the building since the week of Easter vacation. Administrators and employees returned to the building after a week long absence Monday, but there was still too much commotion for a school board meeting, said Joel Carr, assistant superintendent.

Adult softball teams form

The Romulus Recreation Department is still forming teams for the adult softball league.

The Monday/Wednesday men's division is full with eight teams.

In the Friday division, 14 teams have been formed, two more are needed.

The Sunday division now has five of the eight teams needed.

Romulus Police Chief Fred Dansby and members of a department Special Investigative Unit were honored Monday by the Federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

The department was recognized for efforts in a recent drug raid.

More than seven months of undercover work by the Romulus Special Investigation Unit led to a conviction and mandatory 21-year sentence for a drug trafficker late last year.

Agents presented participants in the investigation with T-shirts. The shirts carry the Achilles emblem, the symbol of a federal unit that targets repeat offenders from violent crimes.

Dansby was full of praise for the members of his unit.

"It's an outstanding unit. This is one of their first big major cases," he said. "Our drug action has dropped tremendously in this city." The case that led to recognition for these officers began in September 1988 when Romulus S.I.U. members initiated an investigation of Edward Delbert Doss, 37, of Detroit.

An informant told police officers Doss had set up a narcotics trafficking ring from an apartment at the 10000 block of Diane in Romulus.

Police were told Doss was trafficking heroin and cocaine.

During the next seven months investigators made several undercover buys at the apartment, according to reports.

Investigators obtained a search warrant April 13, 1989. A search warrant was also obtained for Doss' girlfriend's apartment in Detroit.

Doss and his girlfriend were arrested later that day.

Doss was apprehended in his apartment bedroom. Police said he was throwing narcotics out the window and standing near a loaded, stolen .45-caliber semiautomatic handgun.

Through these arrests, officers confiscated approximately two ounces of cocaine with a street value of more than $5,000 and 10 grams of nearly pure heroin with a street value of more than $30,000.

Officers also seized $3,000 cash, a 1986 Audi car valued at $10,000 and assorted drug paraphernalia. These items were forfeited to the city.

Romulus S.I.U. officers contacted officers from the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms to assist in the raid.

After a federal trial, a jury convicted Doss December 12, 1989 on charges of a felony in possession of a firearm, possession with intent to distribute heroin, possession with intent to deliver cocaine and possession of a firearm in relation to drug trafficking.

Baby succumbs to liver disease at 13 months

LaToya Sade Jones died April 13 at the age of 13 months at Mott's Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor.

The baby was born with a liver disease, Biliary Atresia.

LaToya's parents, Raye and LaMont Jones, had been struggling to arrange a liver transplant for their daughter.

Their struggle became a community effort in March when Wick Elementary School and Bethany Apostolic Faith Church sponsored fundraisers for the family. Several local business people joined the effort.

At Wick, more than $1,000 was collected.

Plans for a transplant were delayed in February when the baby was admitted to the intensive care unit at Mott, shortly after her first birthday.

With money from the fundraisers, Raye and LaMont were able to take a room at the Medic Inn in Ann Arbor to be near their baby.

Family members cared for the Jones' other children, Jerome, 6, and Lakiesha, 4, and brought the children to visit their parents in Ann Arbor.

Funeral Services for LaToya were April 17 at Bethany Apostolic Faith Church.

appeal to the judge.

"What neither of them said had an effect on me."

Several members of Camilli's and Mills' family claimed the sensationalism of the case prevented jurors from providing a fair verdict.

"We're upset about the sentencing," added Scharg. "We plan an appeal. We're optimistic that the court of appeals will address the issues we raise...sometime in the future this case will be tried again."

Even if the current ruling stands, the men may not spend the rest of their lives in prison.

Although a life sentence is the maximum penalty permitted by law for assault with intent to murder, Camilli and Mills will be eligible for parole in 10 years, said Romulus Detective Sgt. Daniel Snyder. Snyder investigated this case with Sgt. Darryl Poe.

"You want to keep these guys off the street," Snyder said. Prosecutor James Baker said, "We think life should be life. It depends if the parole board does the right thing 10 years down the road."

Baker said Grauman under a victim's rights law will receive notification from the justice department whenever a development arises in this case.

"Hopefully she can have some input," he said.

treatment, Grabowski said.

White was ordered back to full duty without back pay.

Grabowski said the city unsuccessfully appealed White's reinstatement in circuit and appeals courts. Shortly after, the union filed with the Michigan Court of Appeals a motion for contempt of court.

Meanwhile, city officials say they are within their rights by requesting medical and psychological testing before reinstating White.

City officials also claim they have been sending White paychecks since March, 1990. The officer reportedly refused to accept one of the paychecks, and it was sent to the POAM office. Grabowski said the check said "final payment." City officials said the check was not a final payment and that statement was a clerical error.

Additional city claims against White were specified - the officer has not acknowledged orders to return to work and he has refused to accept registered letters requesting him to come to the station, fill out a health card and take a drug screening test.

"I have a responsibility to the people of this community to ensure we're providing the best kind of law enforcement we can," she said.

In a release to local media, Grabowski claims morale in the Romulus Police Department is low.

"The officers are apprehensive in performing their duties, as general opinion is that the chief administers through fear, intimidation and coercion," he wrote.

"That's the first time I've heard that, and as far as I'm concerned it's not true," Dansby said.

Funding sought for education

Noting that funding for drug education and prevention programs received only three percent of the budget of the Southeast Michigan Substance Abuse Services, members of the Conference of Western Wayne urged an increase in funding for those services.

Members of the CWW adopted a resolution, calling for a 20-percent allocation for the drug education and prevention programs.

The resolution, adopted at the April 20 CWW meeting, noted that all CWW respondents to a 1990 issues survey had listed increased drug education and prevention programs as an essential need.

ter, sand, gravel, roofing materials. Also forbidden is broken glass, car parts, dead animals, landscaping material, hazardous chemicals, concrete, asphalt material, drums or barrels.

Use of the city dumping site will be free from April 30 through May 12. Dumping will be allowed from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturdays.

The dump is located at 34100 Goddard Road, a quarter mile east of Wayne Road.

8-year-old killed in tragic golf accident

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus residents are still reeling after a tragic accident claimed the life of an 8-year-old boy.

Local police officers said Monday they have concluded the death of the 8-year-old early Friday morning was an accident.

The boy died approximately 10 hours after he was struck on the head with a golf club by an 11-year-old boy, police reports state.

Police said the older child had been practicing swings Thursday evening with the club and a tennis ball when he missed the ball and struck the 8-year-old on the jaw.

Rescue workers transported the injured boy to Annapolis Hospital in Wayne. From there, he was taken by ambulance to Children's Hospital in Detroit.

Hospital reports indicate the boy died at 3:50 a.m. Friday from internal injuries to the head.

Police refused to release the names of either child in this case based on requests from the parents.

When officers investigated the case Thursday evening, they spoke with three children who witnessed the injury. They told police the 11-year-old did not seem to realize the younger boy had been in the path of his golf club.

"It was just a tragic accident," said one of the investigators, Sgt. Eric Painter.

Initially, Painter said, reports had circulated that the 11-year-old struck the victim twice. That story suggested the injury was not an accident.

After further investigation, however, police learned that story was false.

"We ruled that was not the case. It was nothing more than vicious gossip," Painter said.

Police officers have officially closed the case.

Meanwhile, staff members at Wick Elementary School are preparing for the aftermath from this tragedy.

The boys involved in the case and the witnesses attend Wick.

Principal Nick Tottis said Monday he sent a letter to parents reminding them that a school social worker and a psychologist are available for anyone who seeks counseling.

Resident charged in break-in

A 31-year-old Romulus resident has been charged with breaking and entering an occupied dwelling.

Kenneth D. Powers was arraigned April 20 in the 34th District Court in Romulus. Bond was set at $5,000, and the defendant was remanded to Wayne County jail to await a May 2 preliminary examination.

Romulus police officials said it was a large group of people that apprehended Powers April 19, the night of the break-in.

Two guests at a hotel on the 8600 block of Wickham told police they saw a man leaving their hotel room as they returned from the pool.

As they pursued the man, other people at the hotel joined the chase.

When police officers arrived, the suspect had already been detained.

The victims said someone had rummaged through their property at the hotel room that night, but they could not detect anything missing.

Scouts chip in to save the Earth

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Local scouting troops have taken Earth Day 1990 quite seriously, initiating cleanup projects and tree plantings throughout the area.

Girl Scout Troop 215 of Halecreek Elementary School spent Saturday morning cleaning up the West Mound United Methodist Church Cemetery in Taylor.

Troop leader Patty Molloy said 10 scouts participated by raking leaves from tombstones and picking up garbage.

"We've been working through the year on the earth matter badge," Molloy said.

The cleanup effort fulfilled a community service requirement. Church staff repaid the girls with a free lunch.

Troop member Ryan Molloy, 11, said she would be willing to participate in a second cleanup.

"It was good. We raked leaves, picked up garbage."

Ryan said her troop, in honor of Earth Day, has been discussing ways to help the planet. She suggested returning paper bags to the grocery store, turning off lights when they're not needed and using non-aerosol cans.

"I think we should stop polluting the air," said Meggan Molloy, 12, another troop member.

Another hands-on lesson for the girls, Meggan said, was when they created a mini-landfill. They buried items to see how long it takes to decompose.

During a recent camping trip, the girls made do without paper plates or utensils. They brought their own dishes and washed them after meals.

"We let them know paper is bad for the environment," Molloy said.

During the first Earth Day, she added, not many of the young people she knew took the event seriously.

"I think our kids are a lot more aware."

Sunday afternoon, Girl Scout Troop 571 of Cory Elementary School participated in a cleanup project at a local family's home on Huron River Drive.

The residents, a senior citizen couple, thanked the girls with ice cream.

"It was a lot of fun," said Troop Leader Hazel Moore. "There are people out there that need help."

Eight scouts and three adults participated. Most of the work involved raking leaves and planting flowers.

Also during the weekend, members of Girl Scout troops 704 and 476 cleaned the Romulus Cemetery at Shook Road. Approximately 40 girls participated.

"We went there, picked up garbage and we rubbed the tombstones with newspaper and crayons to bring out the letters," said Shannon Foley, 11, of troop 476.

Foley said her troop plans to present a play for parents soon about Arbor Day. The troop also plans to plant flowers at a local fire station.

"They've all (troops) got something planned," said Elise Foley, troop services director.

Tonight a guest speaker from New Boston will talk to local scouts at Romulus City Hall about recycling.

As far as local boy scouts, several Romulus troops are participating in conservation projects, according to Theresa Bizoe, district executive for the Huron Valley district.

"A lot of scouts have been recycling paper," she said.

In addition, she said, some scouts from the Westland area were expected to plant trees at the General Motors Chevrolet-Pontiac Canada Group plant at Ecorse Road in Romulus.

Area Girl Scout troops participated throughout the weekend in various activities connected to Earth Day and Arbor Day. The girls cleaned yards and planted trees. ANP photos by Patricia Douglas

Exploring the alternatives of better Earth

Area residents are now geared up to save the Earth. After an eventful Earth Day weekend with tree planting and distribution, seminars, cleanups and nature hikes, it is now time to implement these earth-saving measures into our everyday existence.

This is a critical time for the environment. The Detroit incinerator has been shut down, and trucks filled with solid waste are lined up at the landfills in our own back yards dumping the material that would have otherwise been burned.

Such will be the case until safe alternatives are implemented.

The first critical step is now in the hands of the representatives of the Conference of Western Wayne. They are expected soon to hear a proposal from a company offering composting services to local communities.

Grass clippings, leaves, sticks and branches take up a great deal of room in our landfills and are not easily burned in an incinerator.

This refuse, however, can be recycled into a rich soil additive to make your garden more productive and your soil richer. Or it can be sold to farmers. Why throw such riches away?

We ask our CWW leaders to listen with great interest to this proposal, and consider the impact on our environment.

Composting is the ultimate in recycling. It involves taking completely natural matter, allowing it to decompose and once again using it as a nutrient for the earth. It involves no heavy machinery, and creates no toxic gases.

All that is needed is a piece of land. Some residents compost in a corner of their own back yard. It is not difficult.

But to promote such an endeavor, we need the assistance of the CWW. As an organization, they can secure the land needed, they can arrange for the materials to be picked up at homes.

We support the composting plan, and ask that our CWW leadership chooses to do the same.

Leave the airport to private sector

Canton Township officials have established a committee to study the feasibility of purchasing Mettatal Airport.

The small airport has been privately owned since its beginning, but current owners are looking to sell.

Purchase of the airport by the township is a topic sure to draw heated debate.

The current owner says the township could buy the airport with federal grants, using very few Canton dollars. He says the airport could net hefty profits for the township through rentals, lessons, and corporate flights.

Purchase of the airport could also cause major headaches for the township which has been praised for its attractiveness to families as a place to live.

Complaints of noise and traffic from the airport would quickly be placed at the feet of Township Supervisor Thomas Yack. There would be no other property owner on which to place the blame. It would be the sole responsibility of the township to "deal with it."

If there is great profit to be made, why then is it being sold and why aren't individuals flocking to purchase the business?

The company books should be investigated thoroughly to find proof of such profit.

What kind of attraction would there really be to owning an airport? Is there really a benefit to the township?

It is good that a committee has been appointed to study the matter, because on the surface it appears to be a "white elephant" dragging nothing but trouble behind it.

The goals of a lifetime

It was three weeks ago yesterday that she died.

When the EMT unit arrived at a local nursing home in a futile attempt to save her life, the technicians knew instantly that she was in serious trouble. They raced, with sirens screaming, to Annapolis Hospital, knowing that she would not survive the trip to Garden City Hospital where they had taken her only a week before.

In the hospital emergency room, her heart failed and the medical staff scrambled to bring her back with the promise to her that her family was coming and would soon be there with her. She managed, somehow, to cling to life until her children arrived on the scene. Shortly after they got there, my aunt, Sue Ann Fritz, died.

She was the youngest of three girls in her family, and my mother, Mildred, and Ilene Hamann were her older sisters. The girls were the pride and joy of Hazel Dana Morrison Remdt and Lyle Carl Remdt, of Findley, Ohio.

They were a very close family, the Remdts. Both sets of grandparents lived nearby and were a part of their daily life. Anna (Plocher) Remdt and Louis Albert Theodore Remdt had met on the boat to America as immigrants from Germany. The girls' maternal grandparents, Louella (Slagle) Morrison and Millard Morton Morrison, were transplants from Indiana, but very much of old American stock. Mildred and Ilene saw a great deal of their grandparents.

David J. Willett

Soon a career opportunity as an accountant caused the move of the dashing young couple and their two beautiful daughters to Toledo. There, on December 8, 1932, somewhat late in the marital life of Hazel and Lyle, arrived my Aunt Sue Ann.

Perhaps late in life is a bit too delicate. Aunt Sue was, in fact, only one year older than my sister, Marilyn. It seemed only natural that she became more like a sibling to my brother and sisters and me than an aunt.

My Grandfather Lyle adored Sue. She was a treasure to him. As he became more interested in photography as a hobby, she was undoubtedly his favorite subject. As a model, the tiny Sue was certainly no shrinking violet. She had a beauty that shone and the camera loved her.

Sue's birth was truly a mixed blessing. While her presence and her striking beauty made her the joy of her parents, she was also the anchor that prevented them from traveling as they had planned. Lyle loved to travel, and the two of them had enjoyed the freedom of having their two daughters grown and in homes of their own. Many things added to the strains on their relationship, and in the end, Aunt Sue became a victim of a situation not of her making or choosing.

After the divorce of Lyle and Hazel, Sue really did become like another sister to the four Willett kids. My brother and sisters and I were as close to her as to each other.

Lyle was not a man to shirk his responsibilities and from his new residence in Florida he set up a trust for his former wife and his daughters. He made every attempt to send Sue to the best schools possible and she graduated from Cranbrook High School where we were frequently in the audience to cheer her in theatrical productions. She invariably was the beautiful heroine.

Eventually, she met and married Wayne Fritz and they became the parents of four children, Mark, Steve, Debbie and Lori. She was young, beautiful, full of hope and dreams and always fun to be with. She found in her own marriage and motherhood the sense of family she had never known during her childhood.

My Aunt Sue was stunningly beautiful, intelligent and the favorite daughter of a wealthy, doting father. There were no doors closed to her and nothing she could not have accomplished. She chose what she wanted most...to be a wife and a mother. She never regretted that decision.

The last time I saw my Aunt Sue, I had taken my mother to a physician who specialized in arthritis therapy. Sue had been undergoing treatment for crippling arthritis for many years. The gorgeous young woman I remembered was wracked with pain and forced to endure heavy braces on both legs to support her slight body weight.

It had only been a few years since the diagnosis of rheumatoid arthritis, but Aunt Sue had suffered the indignity of the disease fighting the debilitation every step of the way. She had endured the surgical replacement of several joints, the pain and the restriction of movement. It was this monstrous disease that finally wore her down and stopped her heart.

As I listened to the eulogy at her funeral, a part of me wished the minister was commenting on her winning the Nobel prize for science or literature for there is no doubt in my mind that she could have accomplished that. But, as I looked around the room, at the family who loved her so, I knew that Aunt Sue had achieved her goal.

Sue Fritz won the prize she sought in this life. She had the love of her four children, her grandchildren and the devotion of her many friends. Despite the unbelievable pain and suffering inflicted on her, Sue Fritz died a happy and fulfilled woman, with her beloved family at her side.

Goodbye Aunt Sue. I loved you and I will never forget you. Your life will stand as a living monument to the importance, the love, the sacrifice and the sense of sharing that only a family knows.

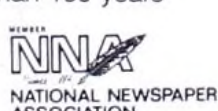

I really will miss you.

Amendment stalls, lack of interest

By JOHN AGGE
ANP Staff Writer

All's quiet on the charter amendment front.

After nearly a month of posturing and presenting plans and alternate plans, the issue of whether a special election should be conducted in the event of a mid-term vacancy in the office of county executive still remains unresolved.

As far as County Executive Edward McNamara is concerned, however, the question was answered with the original drafting of the county charter in 1982. McNamara sees nothing wrong with the current system of succession to the office by the executive-appointed deputy executive.

"Under the current system, the team of professionals running county government would remain intact until the next regular county election, providing a smooth transition," McNamara said. "What the commissioners don't tell you is their proposal hits you in the pocketbook - to the tune of $2 million, the cost of holding a special election."

The plan McNamara spoke of was authored by three commissioners, including commission chairman Arthur Blackwell and Kay Beard, and calls for a special election to be staged to replace the executive in case of a vacancy.

A compromise plan was submitted by Commissioner Milton Mack in which the deputy executive position would also become and elected position, much like the governor-lieutenant governor state ticket.

The criticism of the Mack plan is the executive would not have the freedom to remove the deputy if so desired, but the plan would eliminate the need for a special election, would move an elected official to an elected position and would provide for a smooth transition of power, some say.

Mack said at this time neither plan has enough votes to warrant being placed on the November ballot for voters to decide. He also said the whole issue was not worth the time and effort of those elected to care for the county's needs.

"This is more reflective of political infighting than serving the public's needs," Mack said.

Auto theft decreases

An areawide assault on auto theft rings will continue into its third year with grant funds awarded to fund the Western Wayne Auto Theft Elimination Effort in 1990.

The WWATEE was formed in 1987 with a one-year grant, and staffed with officers from Wayne, Westland, Romulus, Northville, Northville Township and the Michigan State Police. The funding was extended in the two succeeding years, and $355,839 in grant money was awarded to the WWATEE for 1990.

Lt. Sandra Miller, WWATEE commanding officer, reported to the Conference of Western Wayne that auto theft rates decreased by 18.9 percent in 1988 in western Wayne County. In addition, she said, auto theft rates in Michigan decreased by 10 percent between 1985 and 1988 as compared to a national increase of 30 percent during the same period.

"In spite of these encouraging statistics, auto theft remains a serious economic problem. Wayne County has the highest auto theft rate per 100,000 population and the highest theft rate per registered vehicle," Miller reported. "A booming construction industry has created a multitude of market places in condominium, apartment, hotel and mall complexes. The migration of increasing numbers of urban dwellers to these suburbs - as well as their easy accessibility by freeway systems - will continue to ensure that these are attractive target areas to thieves."

Miller said the two WWATEE teams have been extremely successful in undertaking auto theft investigations, and have concentrated on commercial operations. Many major auto theft conspirators have been apprehended and imprisoned, resulting in a significant impact upon the auto theft program.

Among its notable investigations successfully completed by the WWATEE in 1989 were:

- In June, officers recovered a total of 33 engines and 67 transmissions in a Westland/Garden City raid. Six assault weapons, three rifles and a shotgun were seized in what may be "one of the largest fencing operations existing in southeastern Michigan," according to Miller.

- In August, 20 charges were authorized against defendants for operating a chop shop, which specialized in sports-type vehicles.

- In October, the WWATEE and their downriver counterpart worked together to address the problem of older model disabled vehicles being stolen from Detroit freeways and sold for scrap, and one defendant was convicted.

- Seven stolen vehicles, valued at $44,500 were recovered and two defendants arrested through an informant program.

- Paul Frank Garavaglia was convicted on charges related to operating a chop shop in "one of the largest truck theft operations uncovered to date in the state of Michigan."

In addition, Detective Sgt. James Gavigan instructed classes at the 26th annual North Central Regional Chapter of the International Association of Auto Theft Investigators seminar.

Tiger relays

6 area track teams to compete for Belleville championship

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Some of the finest young high school track & field talent in the state will invade Belleville High on Saturday to compete in the 1990 Tiger Relays.

"We expect some outstanding performances here," said Belleville Coach Dave Medley. "As in the past, these relays have brought together athletes who have gone on to win state recognition."

Among those teams that have accepted the Belleville invitation to compete are Plymouth Canton, Plymouth Salem, Livonia Churchill, Garden City, Taylor Truman, and Inkster high schools.

Competition in the 15 event invitational will begin at 10 a.m. There is a $1 admission charge for a program that will consist of four field events, seven running events, and three open events: the 100-yard dash, high hurdles and the mile run.

Belleville will tune up for its own relays today with its second

Wolverine 'A' Conference meet. They will host Trenton, one of the better teams in the league. The field events will begin at 3:30 p.m. Medley is optimistic that his Tigers can post their second conference victory of the young season.

"I feel we have the manpower to beat them (Trenton)," said Medley, who has coached the Tiger track teams on-and-off since 1975. "However, this is the smallest (in numbers) team that I have ever fielded as coach."

Medley said that his team consists of 31 athletes, a far cry from the usual 65, who usually try out for the team. Asked if this was the consequence of the school district's policy of imposing a $250 fee to pay-for-play, Medley responded: "absolutely".

"Some of the families just don't have the money. That's the bottom line."

In September of 1989, in order to offset an anticipated budget deficit, the Van Buren School District approved a policy that required athletes to pay $250 to compete in the sport they chose to compete in. Although the policy has managed to keep varsity sports alive in the school district, simultaneously, it may have also forced some athletes to the sidelines.

In track, the problem is compounded because "having quantity can help win track meets."

Medley explained: "Because of the policy, we won't get the kid, who is not sure of himself. In the past, these kids have come out

Evans pitches Romulus high to first win

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Rich Evans broke the ice for the Eagles of Romulus and presented first-year coach Don Foley with his first victory of the 1990 baseball campaign.

Evans, a righthander, scattered eight hits, struck out five and didn't walk a batter en route to a 4-1 victory over Garden City last Thursday. Norm Hines suffered the loss as the Eagles tagged the Jaguar pitcher for nine hits.

Garden City came back in the nightcap and erupted for four runs in the bottom of the seventh to salvage the second game of the twin-bill non-leaguer, 10-9.

The loss left Romulus with a 1-2 won-lost overall record to begin the week.

"I hope that the defeat in the second game will be a character builder for us for the rest of the season," noted Foley, who took over the head coaching job from former coach, Dennis Stoh.

Romulus managed to seal the first game with a two-run sixth thanks to a pair of hits. In that inning, Ken Blevins started the rally with a single off of Hines, then he proceeded to steal second. That brought Steve Honeycutt to the plate, who immediately laid down a sacrifice bunt. After Honeycutt stole second, Eddie Tank came through with a two-run single.

Romulus tallied in the first inning when Evans walked, moved up on a passed ball, and scored after Blevins stroked an infield hit, with Evans coming around on the overthrow.

The Eagles made it a 2-0 game in the top of the second as Tank and sophomore Tim Dufore drilled singles. Tank scored on Ben Good's sacrifice fly.

Evans' bid for a shutout was ruined in the bottom of the second when he gave up a double to Emerson and a single to Sherlock.

Blevins and Tank led the hitting assault against Hines. Blevins turned in with three hits in four trips and Tank checked in with two safeties for three appearances at the plate.

After tilting the scoreboard for five runs in the fifth inning to build up a 8-3 lead in the second game, Romulus had Garden City on the ropes but couldn't come up with the knockout punch.

Garden City came back with three runs of their own in the fifth, then the Jaguars cashed in for four more runs in the seventh for the split.

Honeycutt started and worked 4 1/2 innings. He gave up six runs - four earned on eight hits. He struck out two and walked three. Tank was charged with the loss, in relief. He was tagged for four runs, while Honeycutt finished up.

Evans hammered three hits, all singles, and had two RBI for the Eagles, while Blevins latched on to a double and an RBI. Chris Ritter and King each had RBI hits.

Romulus opened the 1990 campaign on the short end of an 11-3 decision with South Central Conference rival, Ypsilanti. The second game of the scheduled doubleheader against the Braves

Vikings to play on their own ball diamonds

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

The Vikings of Inkster have a shot at the 1990 Suburban Athletic Conference girls' softball title.

That's the opinion of second-year Viking coach John Carlson. And Carlson is quick to point out that he and his young club must find a way to stop River Rouge and Willow Run, the pre-season title favorites, if they want their plans to become a reality.

"I think Rouge will be strong again this year - they have most of the kids back who won it a year ago. And you can't count Willow Run out of the picture," said Carlson as he prepared to launch his sophomore year as head coach. "However, I feel we have a chance. A good chance."

Carlson's optimism is generated by the return of six seasoned players, who have proven that they can hit the ball.

"We will be a good-hitting team in 1990," said the Viking coach. "Our defense is questionable, however."

The Vikings have durable Jean Braswell, a right-hander, returning to the mound. Braswell handled 90 percent of the pitching chores a year ago, and is considered among the best in the league.

Then there is Tequan Abney, an all-league first baseman, who batted .673 (with six home runs) a year ago; Salena Braswell, a catcher with a .479 batting average; Alexis Watson, third baseman, and sophomore Tina Tillman, a centerfielder, who the coach says will add depth to the lineup.

Other prominent names that are being tossed around the sidelines as blue-chip players include Tawana Green, a junior infielder; JoAnne Cummings, second baseman; Koryn Stallworth, outfielder-infielder; sophomore outfielders Taji Sanders, Amelia Nixon, Tijana Oliver, along with juniors Tarsha Davis and

Believe me, we are thankful to the voters and school officials, who found funds to repair our home field.

— John Carlson
Inkster softball coach

LaTasha Beard, and these player are legitimate reasons why the Vikings may surprise the SAC field.

"If we get some breaks, we could be right there on top at the end of the season," Carlson stressed.

The Vikings did get a break in their season opener. Their game with the defending champ was cancelled because of inclement weather and will be rescheduled. It will give them time to prepare for the Panthers.

Inkster has three conference games scheduled for the first part of the week. The Vikings had a doubleheader slated with Ecorse on Monday; Ypsilanti Lincoln on Tuesday, and rounded out the week against Oak Park on Wednesday. They'll return to the diamond at home on Monday, taking on the Flyers of Willow Run.

"Home" in 1990 for the Vikings is at the high school.

After playing their home games in the parkway for nearly a decade, school officials late last year raised funds to repair the softball diamond behind the high school. That's where the girls' team will play this season.

"Believe me, we're thankful for what the school district and the voters did for us a year ago," Carlson said. "And I hope we can reciprocate by winning the championship."

Pitching should make Huron better

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

A solid pitching corps and six returning letterwinners may lift the Chiefs of New Boston High out of their baseball doldrums.

The doormats in the league that bears their name, Huron has had problems finding its way into the win column over the years, however, sophomore Huron coach Bill Spiecker believes that 1990 could be a turnaround year.

"Thanks to our pitching and defense, I feel we will be a better team this year," Spiecker said. "And we have six letterwinners held over from last year's club, and most of them played summer ball with me."

Spiecker's son, Matt, a senior, is one of the keys to the Chiefs' season. The 6-0, 165-pound athlete started on the mound in the season opener against Flat Rock and held his conference foes at bay before losing a 11-6 decision in extra innings.

Five unearned runs in the top of the eighth proved to be the Chiefs' undoing. Huron held a 2-0 lead until Flat Rock scored three times in the fourth to lead briefly. Then, in the bottom of the fourth the Chiefs tied the game, went ahead with a two-run spurt in the fifth only to fall behind when Flat Rock struck for three runs in the sixth.

The Chiefs forced their rivals to work an extra inning after they again tied the game at six runs apiece in the sixth.

was cancelled because of winter-like conditions. Ypsilanti got to starter Tank for five runs in the first two innings, and the Braves never looked back. King, a southpaw, worked the next 4 1/2 innings, before giving way to Dufore, a soph righthander. Collins, who went three for five and McDonald, who had a pair of doubles and a single, led the Braves' attack. Ypsi pounded the three Romulus hurlers for 10 hits; the Eagles collected five, off of winner Tim Patterson. The Eagles will be busy this week. They traveled to Ann Arbor Huron on Tuesday for a doubleheader against their SCC foes, and today they will host Ann Arbor Pioneer for another conference game. Romulus will wrap up the week on the road tomorrow, clashing with Coach Chuck Stubbe's Bulldogs of Dearborn Heights Robichaud.

The Wayne County Department of Parks and Recreation is staging its $1 million "Hole-in-One" contest, beginning this week at the Warren Valley Golf Course in Dearborn Heights. The contest will be conducted the final week of April and the first weekend in May, county recreation officials said. There will be qualifying rounds for the contest, with the final shoot-out scheduled on May 8. The schedule for the qualifying round is as follows: Golfers may play from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Saturday, April 28; Sunday, April 29, Saturday, May 5, and Sunday, May 6. and, after a few tryouts, the sport usually gets into their blood, and you have him for the next three or four years. "I can name scores of athletes who have had that experience," Medley added. With his small cadre of athletes, Medley saw his Tigers bury Lincoln Park in the Wolverine 'A' Conference opener. He has a few 'blue chip' athletes, such as senior Brian Gulliver, Lee Bradford, and Andre Edwards to rely on this season. Gulliver will be a contender for a conference medal in the shot put - he should break the 50-foot barrier this season, and he consistently has tossed the discus 145 feet. Edwards, a junior, is an outstanding sprinter. He has been clocked in 9.8 for the 100-yard dash and is a low 22-seconds runner for the 220. Bradford, a sophomore, has cleared 6 feet, 1 inch in the high jump.

Spiecker aided his own cause with a homer into left center field in his first appearance at the plate. Teammate Dave Delano chipped in two hits, both singles, and an RBI, while Chris Good also doubled, in the fifth, and scored, and Bill Worley had a single. Spiecker took the loss, going the distance. He fanned four, walked five and gave up 11 hits. Winning pitcher Mark Villemure was tagged for five hits, while he notched nine strikeouts and walked two. The Huron coach says that his list of veterans includes Ron Nowitzke, a right-hander pitcher who will also be used at third when he isn't on the mound; Matt Hamilton, a junior infielder, Delano, who will see mound and outfield duties, and Ryan Dalton, an outfielder. With Riverview ranked No. 1 in the Class B state rating, and Airport, the defending conference champ, who is also ranked among the top 10 teams in the state, the battle for the league championship will be like a rerun of a year ago. Huron was scheduled to play Grosse Ile on Monday on the home turf, then travel Wednesday to Monroe Jefferson, and return Friday for a home game against Carlson.

There are some other notables, one being senior Rob Priebe, who, according to Medley, "is ready". Priebe will be a crucial member of the Tiger relay teams, and will also find himself running the 220 and the half-mile.

Distributor in forefront of recycling

Although recycling was a major focus of Earth Day, one area firm believes that recycling is a daily priority and "every day is Earth Day."

"As many other industries look for ways to implement recycling programs, the beer and wine wholesale industry has built an impressive record of recycling their products and packaging," said Chris Theisen, of Action Distributing. "We have not ended our recycling efforts with just the beverage containers as required by law. We have established systems within our facilities to handle the recycling of paper, cardboard and plastic products which are used in the packaging and distribution of our product.

Action distributes Miller, Lowenbrau and Meister Brau products throughout western Wayne County.

Since the state mandatory deposit law was implemented 10 years ago, more than 92,700 tons of containers and packaging materials have been eliminated from the wastes being brought to one area landfill.

In terms of the volume of materials, this a four-percent decrease of solid waste at the BFI landfill, in Northville, according to John Myers, BFI technical manager. This means there is more than 92,700 tons of solid waste which is being recycled and not cluttering western Wayne County roadsides or landfills.

These figures are based on the volume of beer and wine sold in western Wayne County from 1979 through 1989 in containers covered by the mandatory deposit law, said Theisen.

The distributing company spokesman noted that the residents of Wayne County are to be commended for their commitment to the recycling of beverage containers as evidenced by the return rate of more than 98 percent.

"It took a lot of effort and $350,000 in capital outlay on the part of our company to gear up and implement the mandatory deposit law in the late 1970s," said Tom Celani, Action president.

Hot cars to be displayed at Motor City Nationals

So, think you have a serious ride?

Then enter it in the 1990 Street Machine Motor City Nationals May 12 and 13 at the Monroe County Fairgrounds.

The Motor City Nationals is open to all vehicle makes and models except four-wheel drive vehicles. Show officials are expecting approximately 1,000 vehicles to be on display at the show. The Motor City Nationals will also feature a "Manufacturers' Midway," filled with the latest in aftermarket parts and accessories and seminars of the latest in auto trends presented by industry leaders.

The advance registration fee is $45 and includes weekend admission for two people and one vehicle and the chance to win thousands of dollars in sweepstake drawings. Applicants will also compete for "Show-n-Shine" awards.

Staff members for Car Craft magazine will be on hand all weekend selecting possible feature vehicles for their publication.

Spectator admission will be $8 for adults and $4 for children ages 6 to 12 at the gate. Advance tickets can be purchased at any of the nine area Auto-works stores for $6 for adults and $3 for kids 6 to 12. Children younger than 6 will be admitted free.

For more exhibitor information, call (317) 236-6521 between 11 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Proposal introduced on insurance rates

A legislative proposal introduced to the Michigan legislature by state Sen. Dick Posthumus (R-Alma) and state Rep.

Spare Parts

John Agge

Paul Wartner (R-Portage) would cut mandatory car insurance rates 25 percent while preserving the Michigan no-fault law and cracking down on drunken drivers.

If the proposal becomes law, the average motorist would pay $50 to $124 less each year for insurance.

Called CARE (Cut Auto Rates Effectively), the proposal would place controls on medical and legal costs involved with auto insurance. These costs have been blamed for increasing insurance costs.

"Controlling costs that drive insurance rates upward is the key to CARE's ability to lower rates," said editors of Michigan Living, AAA of Michigan magazine. "It is what distinguishes it from other legislation."

To control costs, the CARE bill would:

- Strengthen no-fault language to eliminate lawsuits for minor accident injuries.
- Stipulate a driver who is the primary cause of an accident cannot sue the other driver.
- Incorporate an established fee schedule for health care providers similar to the one used in worker's compensation claims.
- Clarify language defining reasonable and necessary expenses for medical care, rehabilitation and home modifications.
- Coordinate benefits from multiple insurance policies and eliminate duplicate payments for the same expenses.

To penalize drunken drivers, CARE would add a $100 surcharge to anyone's policy for a drunk driving or driving under the influence of alcohol conviction.

Experts in the insurance industry favor the CARE program because it attempts to control costs of insurance instead of limiting profits and controlling insurance company expenses.

Some experts fear public animosity toward high insurance rates could lead to legislation similar to the controversial Proposition 103 in California, approved in 1988.

The law in that state mandated insurance rates be cut 20 percent, but reports indicate rates have not decreased because insurance company legal and medical costs have increased much faster than the Consumer's Price Index and companies have approved these costs to the public.

"Proposition 103 ignored the basic economics of the insurance industry," California Insurance Commissioner Roxani Gillespie said.

Ford travels to Ford

The last American-made car of its class, the 1991 Ford Escort, is on display at the Capitol in Washington D.C. today after being driven from the Wayne Assembly Plant.

The car left the area yesterday. Behind the wheel sharing the driving load were Jeff Washington, president of the United Autoworkers Local 900—whose workers build the Escort and James Fluker, UAW quality liaison officer at the Wayne plant.

The two men are making the trip to Washington D.C. to publicize the competitiveness of American products and American workers.

They will be welcomed in Washington by Michigan Congressman William D. Ford, who represents the 15th District where the Ford plant is located.

Clearly, no problem

Bought yourself a new car and can't for the life of you, figure out this clearcoat paint job?

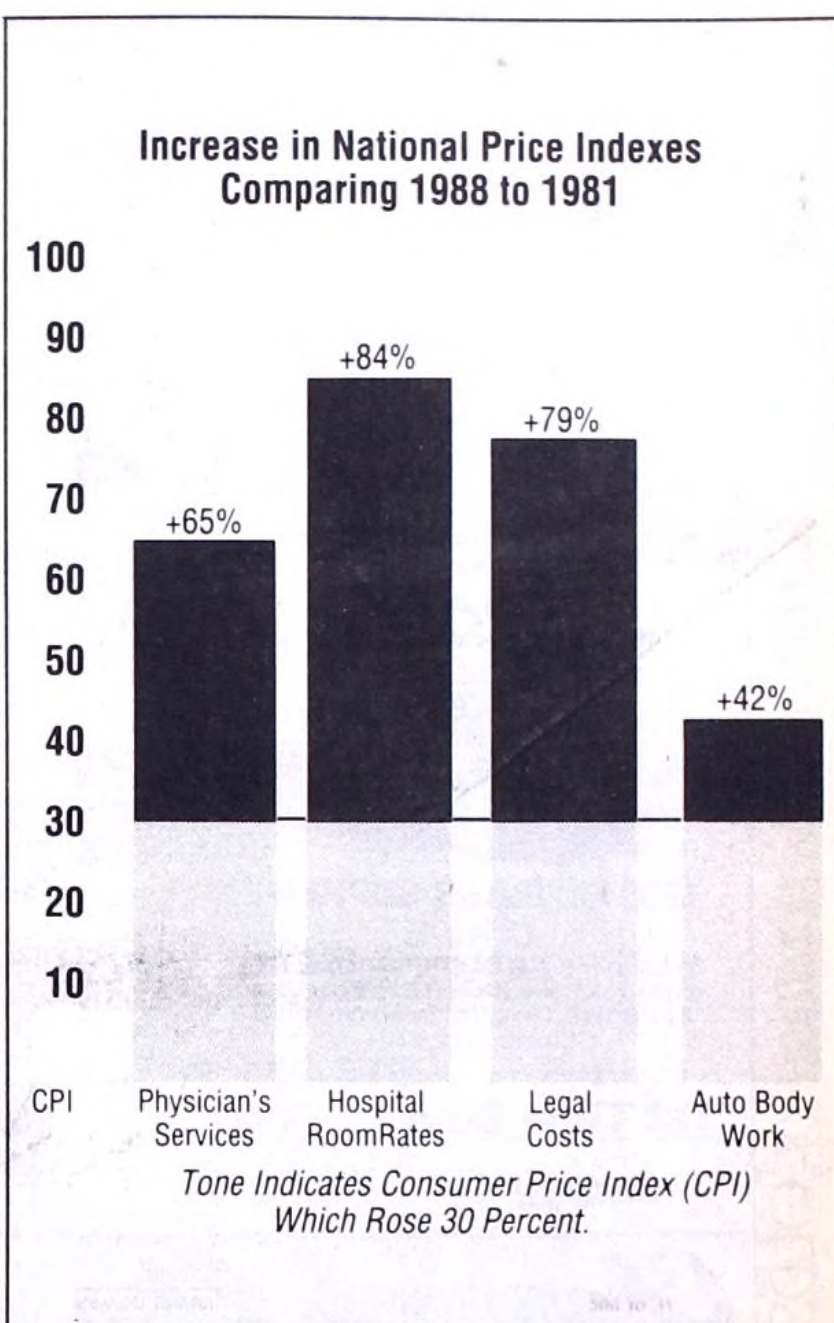

Join the crowd. While everyone seems to agree this new trend in automobile paint is a welcome technological advance, many car owners don't know the correct way to care for a new car paint job.

Well, never fear. It's all very clear and it's printed right here. For the first 30 days:

- Don't go to a commercial car wash. Even the so-called soft brushes now used can damage the car surface. Wash the car in cool water using a soft cloth or sponge by hand with a mild car wash detergent. Better yet, have the kids do it.

- Wash the car in the shade and do not dry-wipe, since it could cause scratches in the paint job. Better yet, offer these suggestions to the kids.

- Try to stay away from gravel roads. It's very easy to chip the surface of a freshly painted car.

- Do not park the car under trees which drop sap or near factories with heavy smoke.
- If gasoline, windshield solution, or any other automobile fluid spills on the car, rinse with water, but DO NOT wipe dry.
- For the first 90 days of ownership, do not wax or polish the car. This will allow the car finish to harden and dry completely.

25 years of love

Just Desserts

Sue Willett

Tomorrow is a very special day.

It's a very special day because tomorrow marks the birthday of one of the finest men I know. Tomorrow, a man who really was the first love of my life will celebrate the anniversary of his arrival on this planet, and I, for one, will be saying a prayer of thanks that he is here.

It was love at first sight when we met, he and I, and I honestly think I may have been looking for him all the years before we were finally formally introduced. Not that our initial meeting was all that pleasant. I must admit, it was marked with tears, pain and trauma.

But, from the first minute, we both knew that this was something very special. Sure, we had our problems during the beginning of our relationship. There were a lot of sleepless nights and worry, and I admit to a lot of floor pacing.

And yes, there was jealousy when we each had to learn to adjust and accept the other people in our lives. We've been through a lot, he and I. We've seen each other through the loss of patience and tempers and comforted each other when there just didn't seem to be anyone else in the world who could understand.

We've seen each other at our best and at our worst. We've been together through illness, injury, victory and defeat.

But through it all, there has been an underlying love and trust rarely found between two individuals. Ours is an affection understood only by those who have experienced real, total and unconditional love for another human being.

In addition to everything else, he is a person who truly understands me and knows what I mean when I talk to him. He is a place I can always go for comfort and understanding, just as he knows he can always come to me.

Our relationship has changed during the quarter of a century we have known one another. While he used to come to me for advice and counsel, now I am the one who seeks his experience and learning.

He is a very special human being, a man of character, values and sensitivity. He has been able to make me laugh, no matter how dismal the situation or how depressing the circumstances, for all of the years we have been acquainted. His wit and humor are as much a part of him as his compassion and caring for his fellow man.

He is truly a gentleman in every sense of the word and I am as proud of my relationship with him as I am of anything else I may ever accomplish in my life.

He is a man I admire and love deeply. He is a person who touches me to the very roots of my soul and whose happiness brings joy to my heart. Tomorrow he will be 25 years old and I wish him as much bliss, humor and love in his life as he has brought to mine.

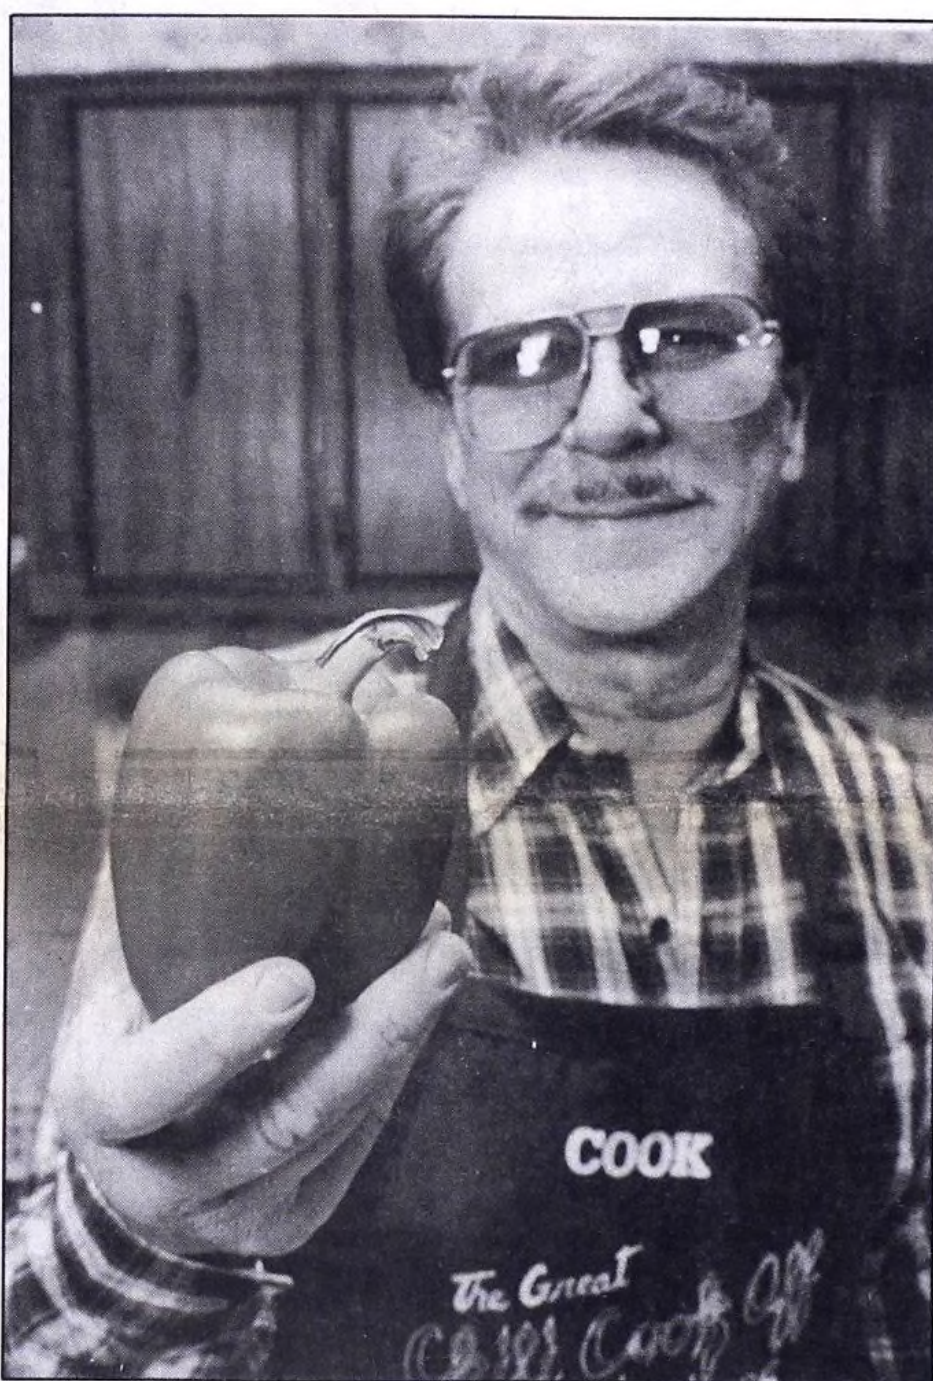

He is my friend and my son. Happy birthday, Don.

And to mark this special day (although law school finals have postponed our official celebration) this is a terrific cake, although somewhat untraditional for birthday celebrations. This is one of Don's favorites.

Local chefs prepare for cookoff

By FLORENCE MEEKS
ANP Staff Writer

Every year around this time a ritual begins.

A group of people bring out their kettles, check out their spice racks and begin some serious recipe formulations.

This is chili season. It begins in early spring and culminates with the National Kidney Foundation of Michigan Great Chili Cookoff.

Area cooking team Norm Yassay and Sandy Ressler have spent five years creating concoctions for this fund-raising event, and have won three ribbons during that time.

A cook must give great attention to detail to produce a chili that stands above the rest, Yassay said.

"Every step, even the way you cut vegetables, makes a difference," the Belleville resident said.

Most judges during a cookoff are concerned about eye appeal, texture, quality of ingredients and spices.

"The way you combine everything," Yassay said.

Of course a good bowl of chili should have a little kick to it, the team agreed. Ressler, an Ann Arbor resident, said she likes her chili a bit hotter than Yassay.

Their entry this year is called Tongue Torture, but don't worry, Ressler said they exaggerated a little. Too much spice, she said, is overkill.

"You still want it to taste like chili."

Yassay and Ressler said they delved into the world of chili five years ago because the cookoff seemed like fun.

"We went to the chili cookoff as observers, and we thought wouldn't that be neat."

From that point, the team had to create a recipe. A series of experiments began, experiments that allowed Ressler's children to sample more chili than they ever dreamed of.

"In the beginning we practiced every two weeks for three months," Ressler said.

From this experience the team eventually learned the dos and don'ts of chili cooking.

Don't overcook the chili, they said. Do add spices early in the cooking process.

Don't add too many ingredients. They distract from the true chili taste. Do be creative.

Because Ressler and Yassay enter the "unsanctioned" competition staged during the second day of the cookoff, they basically can put anything they want into their kettle.

One year, they put in cabbage.

"It gave it a little body," Yassay said.

A simple way to improve chili flavor is to let it sit overnight before serving. Yassay said the longer it sits the better it tastes.

"The worst taste is right after you cook it," he said (when the judges taste it).

If a recipe calls for vegetables, he continued, add them late in the cooking process. Some veggies, such as mushrooms and green peppers, cook quickly.

Yassay said spices are usually a personal preference. He and Ressler use garlic, red pepper, chili powder and pepper sauce to list a few. Their recipe this year contains cloves.

Once for a potluck dinner, Yassay said, Ressler accidentally added 1 tablespoon cloves to the kettle instead of a teaspoon. The memory still makes both of them laugh.

"Man, those cloves were prominent...this place was like a clove factory," Yassay said.

A final piece of advice from the chili team - relax.

"Have fun," Yassay said. "Don't be afraid to try it. The worst that will happen is it won't work. That won't hurt anyone."

The 11th Annual Great Chili Cookoff will be staged May 5 and 6 at the Washtenaw Farm Council Grounds in Saline. Approximately 120 cooks are expected to participate.

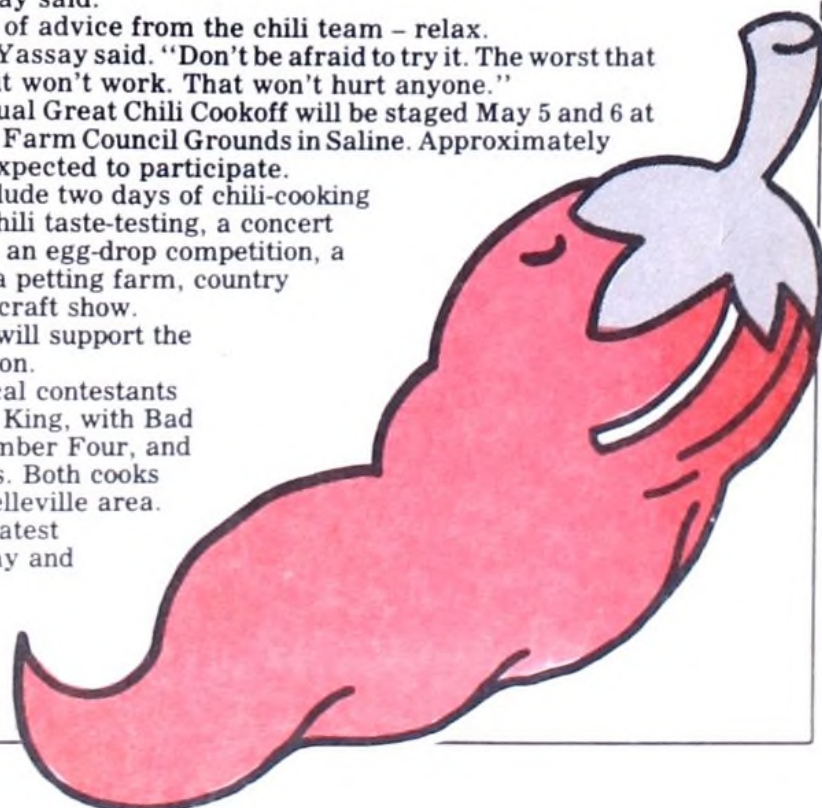

Activities include two days of chili-cooking competitions, chili taste-testing, a concert by Rare Earth, an egg-drop competition, a dish scrub-off, a petting farm, country cloggers and a craft show.

All proceeds will support the kidney foundation.

Additional local contestants include Rodger King, with Bad to the Bone Number Four, and A. Anne Bowers. Both cooks are from the Belleville area.

Below is the latest recipe by Yassay and Ressler.

Belleville greets thousands for annual strawberry festival

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

In just a month and one-half, strawberries will be ripening in the fields of Belleville area growers and thousands of visitors will pour into the area to celebrate the event.

More than 100,000 visitors are expected to attend the 14th annual Belleville Strawberry Festival on June 15, 16 and 17.

The event originated with a group of strawberry growers, who staged the event to promote their pick-your-own berry farms in the Belleville area. The Belleville Area Strawberry festival committee now coordinates the event with the aid of hundreds of local volunteers and the participation of church groups and service clubs. While strawberries remain the focus of the festival, numerous events and activities have been added during the past 14 years to make it a national attraction.

Opening event for the three-day festival is the selection of a Strawberry Queen on June 15. A panel of judges will select the queen and her two-member court from among 12 young area women at a 7:30 p.m. pageant staged at the Belleville High School auditorium.

The queen contest has been sponsored by Associated Newspapers for the past 12 years. Coordinated by Diane Ferguson and assisted by members of the Associated Newspapers staff, the event began modestly as an outdoor judging. The contest, which expanded into the school auditorium to accommodate the increased attendance, features talent performances and evening gown judgments plus a group dance number. For the first time, a guest celebrity is expected to share duties as master of ceremonies with Hazel Bigham, a longtime queen contest volunteer.

On the following day, a 1 p.m.

These youngsters are ready for the Belleville Strawberry Festival coming soon. Strawberry treats will be offered throughout the festival grounds. ANP file photo parade down Main Street with feature the 1990 Strawberry Queen, floats, bands and vehicles. Throughout the three days, activities will be scheduled in the downtown area and on the grounds of three churches - St. Anthony's Catholic Church, First Presbyterian Church of Belleville and Trinity Episcopal Church - with free bus service shuttling visitors from one site to another.

Free music and entertainment is featured downtown and at some of the church sites plus crafts shows, puppet shows, karate demonstrations and a variety of foods - many featuring strawberries.

This year, for the first time, a Rubber Ducky race is planned by the Belleville Music Committee. Patterned after a successful event in Calgary, Alberta, the race is aimed at earning funds for the summer

- 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons grated orange zest
- 1 cup unsalted butter, softened

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Butter and flour one 9-inch fluted tube pan.

In a small bowl, toss the chocolate chips and Grand Marnier until the chips are moistened and shiny. Add the 1 1/2 teaspoons flour and toss until evenly coated.

In a medium bowl, lightly combine the eggs, 1/4 cup sour cream and vanilla.

In a large mixing bowl, combine the dry ingredients and orange zest and mix on low speed for 30 seconds to blend. Add the butter and remaining 3/4 cup sour cream. Mix on low speed until the dry ingredients are moistened. Increase to medium speed (high speed if using a hand mixer) and beat for 1 1/2 minutes to aerate and develop the structure of the cake. Scrape down the sides. Gradually add the egg mixture in three batches, beating for 20 seconds after each addition to incorporate the ingredients and strengthen the structure. Scrape down the sides. Stir in the chocolate chips. Scrape the batter into the prepared pan and smooth the surface with a spatula. Bake 55 to 65 minutes or until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean and the cake springs back when pressed lightly in the center. Shortly before the cake is done, prepare the syrup.
